The Old Course

The Old Course at St Andrews is considered the World's oldest golf course. It is a public course over common land and has previously hosted The Women's Open on two occasions, most recently in 2013.

THE AIG WOMEN'S OPEN

First played at Fulford in York in 1976, the event has quickly grown to become the most international major in women's golf and one of the most prestigious. The list of AIG Women's Open Champions is a who's who of great golfers in modern times, with their victories collected on an array of well-known courses that are much loved around the world.

From world-class golf, to diverse street food and live entertainment, the new festival fan village, designed to generate a fun, vibrant and welcoming atmosphere, offers something for everyone. Across the brand new Sessions Stage, there'll be a celebration of women in sport, business and lifestyle, bringing together leading athletes, opinion leaders and influencers to discuss all the hottest topics in women's sport.

BOUTIQUE HOTEL INDIGO DUNDEE

Boutique Hotel Indigo Dundee brings the city's jute-spinning past back to life with its bold, minimalist design. Situated only 30 minutes from The Old Course, you're close enough to benefit from short transfers to The Women's Open, and can spend your evenings in the heart of Scotland's fourth largest city. Set in a former textile mill, the hotel reflects its industrial heritage with bare-brick walls, hardwood timber floors and simple, pendant lighting.

YOUR GOLF COURSE

CARNOUSTIE BUDDON LINKS

The newest of the three courses at Carnoustie, originally designed by Peter Alliss on land that was formerly part of the ladies' course.

The Buddon Links is a fantastic test of golf with great natural beauty. It starts and finishes as a links course, and boasts attractive lakes rich with local wildlife especially on the 11th hole. This course consistently creates a great experience for all golfers.

LUNCH AT CARNOUSTIE

THE ROOKERY

The Rookery is located on the upper floor of Links House at Carnoustie Golf Links, and enjoys unrivalled views over the iconic Championship Golf Course and to the sea beyond.

The Rookery showcases the best produce Scotland has to offer in a comfortable and relaxing eating space, with first class service and a sweeping outlook over one of golf's greatest tests.

FORBES OF KINGENNIE

CAIRNGORMS PUTTING GREEN

The Cairngorms Putting Green at Kingennie emulates the Cairngorms Mountain Range in the heart of Scotland - all on a Scottish golf course in the gentle Angus countryside, near Dundee.

Take on the challenge after a putting clinic delivered by PGA Professional Nicky Lawrenson, followed by drinks on the terrace and 'The Golfing Mind' workshop.

Where else can you climb 18 Munros, walk 7 Glens and as many Corries, Passes and Valleys in under an hour?
